

Salute to graduates

For the first time in West Central School's history, the 2020 graduation will be held virtually, rather than in-person due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

At 'Dateline's' deadline, West Central staff were putting the finishing touches on the virtual graduation. Plans included recorded speeches and individual recognition for each graduate. The graduates are also highlighted in our "Tribute to the 2020 Graduates" in this issue of 'Dateline.'

Jed Morison, Superintendent/CEO of the Franklin County Board of Developmental Disabilities, said, "we are so impressed with the work of Dr. Turner and her staff to make sure these graduates and their families are properly recognized. It is such an important milestone and so important to celebrate their achievements as they begin another chapter of their life."

COVID-19 update

SCHOOL YEAR ENDS

The school year has ended, but this will be one school year students and families will never forget.

Based on orders from the Ohio Health Commissioner, Dr. Amy Acton and Governor Mike DeWine, school buildings were closed from mid-March through end of May due to the COVID-19 Pandemic. Teachers, therapists, and other support staff worked in partnership with families to provide online training and support for students and families.

Parents or other family members became the teachers' helpers with coaching from staff. And, staff used technology like You-Tube, Zoom and Teleconferencing to communicate with students and families. Staff and parents alike learned more and more about different and creative uses of technology.

Because of COVID-19, Summer Center programs had to be cancelled for 2020. At 'Dateline's' deadline, discussions were being held about the Transition to Work program.

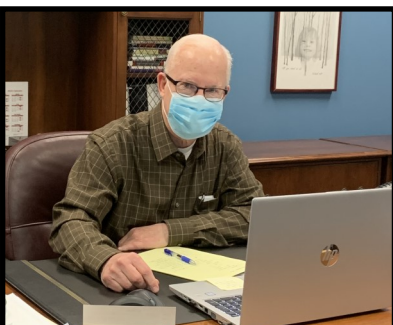

SERVICE COORDINATION AND PROVIDERS

Other services provided by the Board continue with almost all staff working from home. Service Coordinators maintained contact with individuals on their caseloads, families and providers, with particular emphasis on those who have medical issues placing them at greater risk. Individuals receive services from over 500 residential and adult providers in Franklin County. According to Larry Macintosh, Director of Administrative and Support Services, "the Providers in Franklin County have really stepped up to provide quality care, while keeping people safe. There are so many stories of how Providers and Direct Service Professionals have gone the extra mile to provide needed support."

CORE MESSAGES

With many businesses re-opening, better weather and more testing, it is expected that more and more people will be diagnosed with the COVID-19 virus. With that in mind, Health Officials are stressing that everyone continue to follow preventive guidelines and help communicate the core messages:

- Wash hands
- Maintain social/physical distance (6 feet)
- Stay at home whenever possible
- Wear face coverings in public
- Stay Safe Ohio!

Superintendent/CEO Jed Morison maintains 'Stay Safe Ohio' protocols by wearing a mask.

Census count more important than ever

Editor's Note: Thank you to the Franklin County Commissioners for providing this article on the 2020 Census. This year more than ever, the Census is important, recognizing how much federal funding comes from the government.

The U.S. constitution requires the federal government to count everyone who lives in the United States every ten years.

For the first time this year, the census is mostly online, but the plan still calls for local officials to promote the count at community events and for census employees to do a large part of the count by going door-to-door talking with people who haven't responded online. Needless to say, social distancing, event cancellations, and stay-at-home orders have thrown a wrench into those plans.

The decennial census count is used in a variety of important ways, including determining each state's representation in Washington D.C. and funding amounts for programs that many residents rely on, like Medicare, Medicaid, SNAP, Head Start, WIC, TANF, housing, public transportation, and disaster relief. In all, Ohio receives more than $33 billion each year that is determined by census numbers, which means that we'll lose more than $1,200 per person each year for everyone we fail to count.

The current public health crisis highlights why it is vitally important to count everyone who lives in our county. Many of our neighbors are furloughed or unemployed, and applications for social services like those funded according to the census count have skyrocketed. Many parts of Ohio are shrinking, so it's also doubly important to be sure to count everyone in growing areas like Central Ohio.

The census is underway right now, and due to the pandemic, the response period has been extended. Every household will receive a postcard providing a unique code, and can visit My2020Census.gov to fill out the census. There are only ten questions and the survey only takes a few minutes. It's available in multiple languages and can even be taken by phone, if you prefer. The important thing, is to respond and be counted. Your community is counting on you.

To take the census, visit My2020Census.gov. For more information, visit MakeFCCount.com.

Summer Center programs cancelled

The Early Childhood and West Central Summer Center programs for 2020 have been cancelled due to the COVID-19 Pandemic.

With social and physical distancing requirements continuing and state orders to close schools through June 30, it just wasn't possible to hold the programs.

Early Intervention services will continue throughout the summer and will be provided virtually by Early Intervention Specialists and Therapists.

At Dateline's deadline, discussion was continuing about the possibility of holding the summer Transition to Work (TTW) program virtually for older students.

Nisonger researchers interviewing adults by video chat/ phone calls

"Researchers" or "staff" at The Ohio State University (OSU) Nisonger Center want to talk to adults with intellectual disabilities (ID) to learn how they feel about their health and health care.

Nisonger staff would also like to interview support persons, family, friends, and care providers who know the adult with ID well.

Interviews can be done by video chat and phone calls. Both people will get a gift card for their time (up to $75 each).

Sample questions about health include: (1) Are you happy with the health care you receive? (2) In the last two weeks, did your health make it hard to do things? and, (3) Do you feel sad a lot of the time, or do you feel sad only a little of the time?

Listening to people with ID talk about health is key to making health care better for the whole community.

Amish family helps with masks

When face coverings were in high demand due to the Coronavirus, many were looking everywhere to find a resource.

After reading a story on Amish families sewing masks, Superintendent/CEO Morison reached out to another Superintendent in a northern Ohio county with large Amish communities to seek contacts. Two names were provided.

As a result, a contact was made with Kathy Miller and her family. Over 2000 cloth masks have now been delivered for use in Franklin County. Masks have been given to Providers and some will be used by FCBDD staff as staff return to offices and facilities.

Special thanks to Kathy Miller and family for filling an emergency need with quality work.

State Special Olympics Games cancelled

For the first time in over 50 years, the Ohio Special Olympics State Games, scheduled for June, 2020, had to be cancelled due to the COVID-19 Pandemic.

Ohio Special Olympics had to make this call recognizing that the restrictions on mass gatherings and social distancing requirements were just too much to overcome.

Superintendent/CEO Jed Morison said "we are sorry to miss this event for our Special Olympians, but certainly understand and fully support the decision of Ohio Special Olympics. We will look forward to 2021."
